

Insurance Industry Business Practices

Eimer Stahl attorneys have extensive experience representing large life insurance and long-term care insurance companies in courtrooms, before state agencies, and at the settlement table. Insurers often face large-scale business litigation that implicates the laws of all fifty states, that touches on the effects longer lifespans have on policies drafted decades ago, and that requires an expertise in order to explain complex concepts to decision-makers. Eimer Stahl has successfully represented companies in these complex cases and has the expertise to provide creative solutions to this ever-changing industry.
